Album Groove with Fraser Wareham

Nadia Kazmi 's "Arrival" with special guest reviewer Nic

For this review Nic Frey has listened to Nadia's latest release and given his own take on the sounds so I humbly step aside and let the younger opinion shine

Nadia: Arrival

Gave this a listen and enjoyed the blues feel the Vocalist Nadia Kazmi has a smooth sound that is strong and versatile. There is quite an assortment of instrumental arrangement, in track 5 Tyranny of the Heart there are fast paced riffs and quick drum beats while in the following track is more chill and relaxed. The song Mother done on this album both in Acoustic and Electric is nice and slow, emotion and about feelings of disappointment. Her voice changes to fit the mood but continues a full soulful, sweet, and silky sound.

Her song The Blues Always Bleed Red, the title is telling about the lyrical content but gives the blues a visual interpretation. A good listener if you're in the mood for light blues, and those slower tracks strike me as city summer driving tunes. So take listen.
